

Ivia Sky Yavelow

Artist Statement:

What does not knowing look like?

I attempt to depict unknowns. Veils, smudges, reflections, abstractions - how do we conceive of the unknown and the new? Confronting unknowns, looking with uncertainty - these are situations in which we can learn and stretch our horizons.

About the Artist:

Ivia Sky Yavelow earned a BA from Bard College in 2014 and studied at the New York Studio School. In 2015 she was awarded a Visual Artist Fellowship from the Edward F. Albee Foundation and completed a residency at their William Flanagan Memorial Creative Persons Center in Montauk, NY. She has also received awards from the New York Studio School, Trenton City Museum, and other venues. Her process and concept based multi-media works range from installations to freestanding sculptures and works on paper, which she has exhibited since 2010. She currently lives, works, and creates in the tri-state area.
